The Adoptive owner is contractually obligated to return the animal to the shelter if requested, in case the contract or general conditions are not being followed.

Article 3.

With the signature of this contract, made in two identical copies for each of the contractually obligated parties, both parties accept all articles of the contract and general conditions that make up a part of this contract.

GENERAL CONDITIONS OF ADOPTING AN ANIMAL

1. A person who signed an adoption contract and is following the general rules is called the adoptive owner.
2. Contracting parties have the right to break the contract if one of the parties does not comply with the terms of agreement or general rules.
3. The institution has the right to terminate the contract if the adoptive owner does not comply with the agreement about the accommodation and/or in case of an inappropriate treatment of the animal such as:
 - keeping a dog on a chain (contrary to the previous agreement)
 - refusing to give the animal shelter from the elements
 - torturing, beating, causing physical harm
 - inadequate and inappropriate nutrition
 - using the animal in fights and /or hunting
 - not walking the dog regularly
 - refusing to give sufficient amount of water to the animal
 - not socialising the animal
 - keeping the animal isolated from people
4. The adoptive owner is obligated to provide the animal adequate treatment in case of illness and to vaccinate the animal against rabies.
5. The adoptive owner agrees that members of the institution can visit unannounced to check on the animal and if the owner is in compliance with the contract and general rules.
6. The institution is obligated to and has the right to regularly inquire about the adopted animal.
7. The institution is obligated to inform the adopted owner about the known health status of the animal being adopted.
8. In the case of intentional physical harm, torture or killing of the animal, the adoptive owner is legally responsible for any damages and fines.
9. The adoptive owner cannot euthanise the adopted animal without informing the institution.
10. In case of death of the adopted animal, the adoptive owner is obligated to inform the institution immediately.
11. The institution is not responsible for material, financial or other damage that the animal makes after signing the adoption agreement.
12. The institution is obligated to notify the adoptive owner about the animal's character and its habits.
13. The institution is obligated to give the adoptive owner instructions on how to handle and/or treat the animal.
14. The institution is available for any questions about the adopted animal.
15. In case that the adoptive owner cannot keep the animal any longer, the institution has to be informed and the adoptive owner cannot give the animal to someone else without the institution's agreement.
16. In case that the adoptive owner decides to return the animal, they return it to the shelter and pay the 500,00 kns fee.
17. The adoptive parent is obligated to inform the institution about the change of address or residence.
18. The institution guarantees the privacy of adoptive owner's personal information according to their wishes.
19. In case of litigation, that the contractually obligated parties couldn't resolve the case belongs to a competent court in City of Zagreb.

These general conditions contain 19 (nineteen) points and they are mandatory for both contractually obligated parties that accepted them as such according to act 3. of the animal adoption contract.
